Document: ZA-PP-2026-01
Issued: 4 November 2026
Author: Dr. Adil Zaman
Department of Political Science and International Relations
University of Gujrat, Pakistan
Standing: Public notice. Correspondence under it is confidential.

1. Who is responsible

This notice is issued by Dr. Adil Zaman, political scientist at the Department of Political Science and International Relations, University of Gujrat, in his personal professional capacity as proprietor of zamanadil.com.

The University of Gujrat is his academic affiliation. It does not operate this website and is not the recipient of messages sent through the contact form. Correspondence on this site is addressed to Dr. Adil Zaman.

2. Confidential professional correspondence

An enquiry sent through the contact form is treated as confidential professional correspondence. It is read in order to reply. It is not published on the website, added to a mailing list, sold, or shared for advertising.

Access to stored enquiries is limited to the private archive desk, which is available only to the proprietor after sign-in. A copy is also delivered to the proprietor's professional inbox so the message can be answered if the desk is not open.

3. What the contact form collects

If you choose to write, the form collects your name, email address, the nature of the enquiry, the subject, and the message. Institution and country are optional. You are asked to confirm that the enquiry may be stored so it can be read and answered.

The site also keeps a one-way hash of the connection address with the message. The hash cannot be turned back into the address. It is used only to limit repeated automated submissions. It is not used to identify you for any other purpose.

4. Email delivery

A copy of the enquiry is transmitted to the proprietor's inbox through an email delivery service. That transmission contains the same fields you submitted. The delivery service processes the message only to carry it. It is not authorised to use the message for its own marketing.

5. Visit counts

The site keeps a first-party count of page visits: the path of the page and the calendar day. These counts contain no name, no email address, and no advertising identifier. No third-party analytics service is installed.

6. Cookies and storage in the browser

The public pages do not set an advertising or tracking cookie. A session cookie is set only after a successful sign-in to the private archive desk. That cookie is HttpOnly and SameSite=Lax, is marked Secure on the public HTTPS site, and expires after twelve hours. It is used solely to keep the desk signed in.

If you choose a reading language on a publication, research review, or opinion page, that choice is stored in this browser so the same language can be used again. It is not sent to an advertising network.

7. How long enquiries are kept

An enquiry is kept for as long as it is needed to read, answer, and keep a proper record of the professional exchange. You may ask for the enquiry to be deleted by writing through the contact form or to adil.zaman@uog.edu.pk, and stating the name and email address used in the original message. A message that must be retained to answer a complaint or to meet a legal duty may be kept until that duty ends.

8. Links away from this site

Publication records may link to a journal, a DOI, or a publisher page. Those sites are not operated by Dr. Adil Zaman and have their own privacy notices.
